FABRICE LACROIX APPOINTED AFP DEPUTY MANAGING DIRECTOR

FABRICE LACROIX, 43, CURRENTLY DEPUTY MANAGING DIRECTOR FOR MANAGEMENT AND MEANS AT FRANCE TÉLÉVISIONS, APPOINTED DEPUTY MANAGING DIRECTOR AT AFP FROM 18 APRIL 2016.

Fabrice Lacroix will be deputy to AFP managing director Rémi Tomaszewski.

Fabrice Lacroix is a graduate of l'ESCP (1995), Sciences Po (1999) and l'ENA (2001-2003).

He began his career as deputy head of products at the SNCF, then deputy to the Moscow head of "Renault V.I.". In 2003, on leaving l'ENA, he joined the budget management department in the finance ministry with responsibility for the rail sector (SNCF, RFF, major infrastructure projects).

In 2006 he became deputy financial director then financial director of Radio France.

He became the secretary general of the Grand Palais des Champs-Élysées in 2009 tasked in particular with preparing the monument's future architectural projects and to launch the merger with the Réunion des musées nationaux. In 2011 he became cooperation and cultural action advisor to the French ambassador in Kenya.

He joined the France Télévisions group in June 2012, first as deputy managing director responsible for management and finances and then, from 2014, as deputy managing director for resources.
